Airport lots bring $65,500 at auction

The Town of Bethel sold its four remaining airport industrial park lots Monday at an auction held in the town office. Total amount paid for the lots was $65,500.

However, the amount the town will actually receive will be less than that. The town must pay Keenan Auction Co. 8 percent of the sale prices, and the town must also pay the bills for advertising the auction.

Nor will remainder of the money go into the general fund, the town manager said, but rather into the airport reserve account, to pay for future development of the airport. One such item of development talked about at the auction was paving of the roads leading to the various lots.

Sixteen people showed up for the auction, plus the Board of Selectmen, the town manager, the town counsel, the town clerk and three officials of Keenan Auction. Of those in the audience, some were on the airport advisory board and one was an attorney representing a client. There seemed to be only a half-dozen people bidding.

The method used in the auction was to seek the highest amount any bidder was willing to pay for what he or she considered the best lot. When that level was reached, that bidder would be allowed to select the lot or lots he or she wanted to buy—each lot going at the bid price. When that bidder had bought as many lots as wanted at that price, the bidding would start again until the highest level was reached for any or all of the remaining lots. That bidder would then be free to choose which lot or lots he or she wanted at that price. And so on, until all the lots were auctioned off.

The auctioneer asked for a bid of $25,000 per lot to start off. Gamm II last year bought two lots from the Town for $26,000. Hearing no bids, the auctioneer then asked for bids at $20,000, then at $15,000, and finally at $10,000. At that level the bidding started. It then went up by $1,000 increments to $17,000, at which point it started increasing in $500 jumps. Finally, at $18,500, the bidders would

Bethel voters becoming more independent

Are political parties going out of fashion? It seems that way, judging by the present party enrollments in Bethel and Mason.

Bethel Town Clerk Merton Brown says back in the '50s the party enrollments of registered voters was overwhelmingly Republican. By 1986, however, both the Democrats and the unenrolled voters (that is, the so-called Independents) had come close to pulling even with the GOP. In that year there were 570 registered Republicans, 497 registered Democrats, and 533 unenrolled voters. (Mason voters are included with Bethel voters.)

Following last week's election, the new totals show the number of registered Republicans dropped to 557, while the number of registered Democrats increased slightly, to 513. But the number of unenrolled voters jumped by nearly 100, to 626. (Again, the totals include the 30 voters registered in Mason.) There were a total of 1,691 registered voters for last week's election; 1,324 (or 78 percent) of them voted.

As if to underline that Bethel voters are becoming more independent-minded, quite a number even declined to vote for any of the party candidates. In fact, there were 10 write-in votes for Jesse Jackson, 1 for Phil Donahue, 1 for Lee Iacocca, 1 for Richard Nixon and 1 for Howard Baker. However the majority (755 plus 14 from Mason) did vote for George Bush.

Second quake hits area

At 1:15 a.m. Monday another small earthquake hit the Bethel area. The Citizen received reports from residents in East Bethel and West Bethel, saying they felt the motion.

According to Mike Foley, of the Maine Geological Survey, the quake was measured at 3.8 on the Richter scale and was centered in the Sumner area.

As was the case with the 3.9 degree quake last month near Berlin, N.H., there were no local reports of damage. "You don't expect to get damage with quakes this size," Mr. Foley said, "just a lot of shaking and rattling."

School board balks at providing free space for paid private classes

By a vote of 428 to 403, the SAD #44 Board of Directors this week rejected a request to allow a Telstar Regional High School junior to use school facilities free of charge in order to offer, for a fee, music lessons to other students.

Monday evening's meeting of the board marked the first use of "weighted voting," in which the votes of directors from the various district towns are weighted in order to more accurately reflect the relative populations of the towns.

[The actual hand vote on the request to use the room was 8-7, also against. However, the weighted voting arrangement now raises the possibility of an official vote contravening the will of a majority of board members on an issue.]

The room request would have allowed the student, who is an accomplished flutist, to instruct other students in that instrument. The fee usually charged for the use of the room would have been waived, as it is for the music classes offered by Band Director Harry Davis and for the driver's education classes offered at Telstar by Dagle's Driving School.

The precedent for waiving the fee was established by the board five years ago in order to allow the district to offer certain types of instruction for which there were no funds.

That practice itself came under scrutiny at Monday evening's meeting, as a number of board members questioned the propriety of allowing someone to use district facilities to teach for-profit courses.

Following a lengthy discussion, the board agreed to formally review the practice at its next meeting.

The request from the junior to use the Parent-district group recommends four fewer early-release afternoons

The initial meeting, last Wednesday, of the ad hoc committee looking into alternatives to the early release of elementary pupils on Wednesdays produced modest suggestions for modifying the controversial program—among them, eliminating four professional development half days and discontinuing the after-school child care program.

The suggestions will be presented to the SAD #44 Board of Directors at its Dec. 12 meeting, when it is scheduled to review the program.

The results of the meeting, however, fell far short of satisfying the parents, whose concerns over the early release policy had led the board to form the committee in the first place. Two of the parents said, following the meeting, that they would not wait until December but would raise the issue again at Monday night's board meeting. [See related story.]

The committee meeting began tensely, in a decidedly "us/them" atmosphere, as the parents objecting to the program found themselves outnumbered three-to-one by school administrators, teachers and parents supporting the release policy.

But by the end of the meeting the at-

65 YEARS TOGETHER! On Saturday, Nov. 12, Guy and Vera Parker celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary with a party given by their family and friends at the Bethel House Community Room. They were presented with flowers, gifts and a beautiful two-tier cake made by Leona Flint. A buffet lunch was served. Attending from out of town were their son, Guy Parker Jr., and wife Marilyn of Milford, Conn.; granddaughter Rhonda Lichtenstein and son Ryan, from Portland; grandson Mitchell Parker, daughter Tanya and sons Justin and Todd, Milford, Conn. The celebrants were married Nov. 12, 1923, in North Waterford. They have one son, seven grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Gould hockey team the best in MAISAD

Junior Brett White, of Hampstead, N.H., made 94 saves out of 111 shots on goal to lead the Gould Academy women's field hockey team through an undefeated MAISAD season, claiming the MAISAD title for the second season in a row, and finishing with a 6-4-1 overall record. Brett's goals-against average was 1.8, and she helped the team take four of the six wins on shutouts.

Senior Kim Hatfield, of Belfast, led the team's offense, scoring over one-third of the team's goals, with help from Sara Kailey, of Bethel, who had six goals and two assists. Captains Laura Ordway, of Bridgton, and Patricia Leary, of Fitzwilliam, N.H., inspired the strong team, which had nine returning varsity players, including Amy Ford, of Bethel, who scored four goals.

The junior varsity team had a solid 3-2-2 season, led by Laura Gibbons, of Yarmouth, who played for both teams. Standouts for the J.V. team were Susan Crandall, of Bethel, Stephanie Morin, of Springvale, and Chrissy Packard, of Newcastle.

mosphere had improved—in the minds of some participants—to the point where there was talk of more relaxed body language and of an emerging sense of common purpose. "We," Pat Donovan, of Bethel, said, had replaced "us/them."

The next day, however, Carroll Murphy and Jane Rolfe, who had led the challenge to the release program, disagreed.

"I just wanted to let the meeting come to an end," Mrs. Rolfe said. While Mr. Murphy admitted that by the end of the meeting he had abandoned any hope for serious discussion of alternatives.

"It was just plain bogus," he said. "Nothing substantial was discussed. I can't see that they said anything at all."

Both parents also objected to the tone of the meeting. "I was really disappointed in Mrs. Hand [School Board Director Margaret Hand]," Mrs. Rolfe

Winter tabloid distribution begins

The Bethel Citizen's winter recreation supplement was printed this week and distribution begins today (Wednesday) with the tabloid's inclusion in the paper.

The tabloid will be distributed later this week at the Boston Ski Show by the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce and Sunday River Ski Resort.

This Saturday, stacks of the colorful tabloid will be left at ski shops and sports stores from Boston to Portland for customers of those shops. The tabloids will also be left for pick up at YMCAs in three states, plus the state information office in Kittery.

Next Wednesday the tabloid will be home-delivered in Portsmouth, N.H., and the surrounding area, as an insert in the Portsmouth Herald—the city's daily paper.

The remaining copies of the tabloid will be distributed in local inns, shops and restaurants. The Citizen printed 35,000 copies of the tabloid.

If you would like copies for your establishment, you may pick them up at The Citizen office.

When she wasn't throwing down her pencil she was looking away in disgust. "They already had their minds made up," Mrs. Rolfe said. "They didn't want to work with us—there was no sense of a willingness to negotiate."

At the beginning of the meeting, Mr. Murphy and Mrs. Rolfe had suggested a number of possible alternatives to the present program. Among these were cutting the number of early-release days to one or two per month, using substitutes or aides to drill the children in specific skills, eliminating field trips on Wednesdays, and eliminating the early release on weeks with holidays or teacher-workshop days.

These suggestions were listed on flip charts along with those from other com-

Planning Board airs concern over traffic woes on Sunday River Rd.

The planned mini-mall on the Sunday River Road, near the intersection of Route 2, ran into trouble last Wednesday night before the Bethel Planning Board.

What concerned the board was what effect the mall—specifically cars entering or leaving the mall—would have on traffic heading towards or away from the Sunday River Ski Resort.

"If we're backing up traffic onto Rte. 2, I don't think that's something we want to approve," said Planning Board member Ginger Kelly.

Board members were aware of the line of cars heading to the skiway in the morning and could imagine that line being brought to a halt if cars stopped in order to turn left into the proposed mall. Board members also wondered how a car would be able to exit the mall and safely rejoin the flow of morning traffic. The developers agreed that anyone pulling in to the mall would have to wait awhile in order to get back out. Board member Dennis Doyon smilingly said the wait would be about 2½ hours.

But board member Don Feeney said there are breaks in the line of cars in the morning because cars turning onto the Sunday River Road from Rte. 2 have to occasionally wait for westbound traffic on Rte. 2 before being able to turn left, and this causes gaps in the flow on the Sunday River Road.

Summer Burgess, who chaired the meeting in the absence of Reggie Brown, expressed the view of the majority when he said, "We're concerned about traffic and the impact of traffic."

The board was particularly concerned since they had already this year approved two condominium projects on the road, which would also be adding to the traffic problems.

The board ultimately decided to hire a consultant to study the matter. The

Sunday River Ski Resort opens

Sunday River Ski Resort, in Newry, opened for skiing on Sunday, Nov. 13. It was the first ski area in Maine to open.

The decision to open was made at 7 a.m., and by 10 a.m., 250 people were already on the slopes, mainly Broadway. There were also five teenagers out with their snowboards—a sport that will be tried at Sunday River this season.

Mountain Manager Burt Mills said, "Although temperatures have been unseasonably warm at night, we have taken advantage of 20-degree temperatures over the weekend. Over 100 snowguns have been running this weekend." The state-of-the-art snowmaking system is currently focusing on three trails, Mr. Mills said.

The first skiers to ride the triple chair this season were three teenagers—two from Brunswick, and one from Yarmouth.

The skiway's man-made snow was added to by Mother Nature Sunday afternoon, with a few inches of the white stuff coming down. Interestingly, the snowfall seemed confined to the mountains and Bethel. From Bryant Pond south, there was only rain.

The snow caused a number of cars to get out of control. Some went off the road, while some collided with others. There were a total of eight accidents in the Bethel area Sunday afternoon, two of them involving cars hitting one another. There were some injuries.

Hunt total stands at 154 deer and 90 bear

Following the second week of the hunting season, tagging totals were as follows: 154 deer and 90 bear. (The totals reflect animals tagged as of Monday morning.)

At the Bear River Cabins, in Newry, (which did not tag the past few years), there were 11 deer and 25 bears. At Westleigh's, in Bethel, 36 deer and 16 bear were tagged. The biggest deer weighed 244 pounds and was shot by Lee Hutchins, of Bethel. The biggest bear weighed 300 pounds.

At Bob's Corner Store, in Locke Mills, 26 deer were brought in, the largest (241 pounds) belonging to Peter Bean, of East Bethel.

At the Trap Corner Store, in West Paris, 43 deer have been tagged thus far, plus 10 bear. The largest deer (244 pounds) was brought in by Leon Poland Jr., of Woodstock.

In Andover, at Mills' Market, 38 deer have been tagged, and 39 bear. A Vermont man shot the largest deer, which weighed in at 224 pounds.

consultant's fee will be paid by the developer. The board wants the consultant to review the developer's traffic data (which came from the skiway) and the traffic patterns and analyze safety issues, including possible back-ups onto Rte. 2. If the consultant determines there will be harmful effects from traffic going into or out of the mall, he is to formulate recommendations to minimize such harmful effects.

The town's code enforcement officer, Sam Timberlake, suggested the board and the developer might consider widening the road adjacent to the mall in order to set aside a middle strip for cars turning in, or coming out of, the mall. The board also expressed concern over run-off coming from the mall once it is paved and graded. The board voted to hire a consultant to look into this problem as well—again, with the developer paying the consultant's fee.

The mall—The Mill at Sunday River—is planned to have a large deli, plus gasoline pumps, plus a number of

New landfill rules go too far

The Bethel Board of Selectmen, in pursuit of a noble purpose, allowed themselves to get carried away and instituted new rules for the landfill that are impractical.

The landfill is Bethel's last gasp for keeping solid waste disposal costs at a modest level. When the landfill is filled up—in two to three years—Bethel will have to start paying the outrageous fees other towns are paying to solve the problem of trash. (The solutions generally involve setting up a transfer station and then having the town's trash trucked to either a commercial landfill or a trash-to-energy plant. Instead of just paying to operate a landfill, the town winds up having to also pay trucking fees to and from, and tipping fees at, the final destination.)

So granted, the problem is critical. Still, to ask residents of the town to tear apart their boxsprings and disassemble their furniture before taking it to the dump—or before setting it out for clean-up day—is going too far.

The argument for having people disassemble any large object going to the landfill is that only wood can go on the burn pile, whereas the metal parts of furniture and the springs in a boxspring should properly go on the metal pile. A further argument is that if the boxsprings are simply put into the landfill—rather than taken apart and put on the wood or scrap metal pile—the volume of such an object will take up a lot of space.

The arguments are valid, but they do not outway the common sense argument that people cannot realistically be expected to take apart their old furniture, let alone their old boxsprings.

And what will it do to the pre-pickup pickings on clean-up day? Who's going to want to pick up an old boxspring that's in pieces, or a piece of old furniture that's been drawn and quartered? Instead of recycling old, but usable, items (which is a desirable goal of clean-up day), the new landfill rules would actually result in less recycling.

Getting into the landfill with old furniture or an old, worn-out boxspring is going to be more difficult than getting into heaven. This is not the way things should be.

Some of the new rules make good sense and do not impose an undue hardship. For example, one new rule states that white goods will have all doors removed, and tires will be removed from rims. Another rule imposes a fee of $5 for each white good and $2 for each tire. (This will reimburse the town for the cost of having these items hauled from the dump.) However, the rules on boxsprings and furniture should be—so to speak—scrapped.

Now's the time to fix Bird Hill

Oxford Hills developer Bob Bahre has a reputation of doing things right. Now doing his first subdivision in the Bethel area he has shown that his reputation is well-deserved.

Noticing that his Bird Hill Estates subdivision will be difficult to get to—or get from—Mr. Bahre, through his representative, approached Bethel officials to see if he could work out an agreement whereby he and the town could jointly widen and improve Bethel's portion of the Bird Hill Road.

The agreement worked out will cost the developer about $16,000 and the town very little—just the cost of some culvert material, some truck hours, and some manhours. Mr. Bahre's people will do the blasting and his heavy machinery will rebuild the road.

However, the improved road at the upper portion of Bird Hill will only solve half the problem. There will still remain the narrow and substandard Greenwood portion of the road.

According to Mr. Bahre's representative, Bob Faunce, Greenwood officials were approached with a similar deal to the one offered Bethel officials and were not anxious to accept it. The Greenwood officials told him, he said, that since the town would not receive any taxes from the new subdivision it was difficult to justify spending money to help improve the road.

The matter is still on the table for discussion by Greenwood officials, and it is hoped they will take a broader view. True, the town will not receive any property taxes from the new subdivision. But when the subdivision fills up with families, Greenwood businesses will certainly have 18 more families shopping in town. The new families, although residents of Bethel, will certainly eat in the Locke Mills restaurants, ski at Mt. Abram, purchase food in the Locke Mills market and buy gasoline at Bob's store. What helps these businesses helps the Town of Greenwood, whether or not the town receives additional property taxes.

To make it easier for the prospective families to come and go, and to make it safer for everyone already living on the road, Greenwood officials should seriously consider investing the few thousand dollars necessary to bring the road up to safe standards.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

On election day, several hundred volunteers at close to 200 polling places collected over 70,000 signatures on petitions calling for a referendum on the testing of cruise missiles in Maine. [Only] 42,686 signatures were needed to move the process forward.

The petition drive was coordinated by the Maine Freeze Campaign, the Maine Peace Mission, and the Physicians for Social Responsibility of Maine. We are delighted and overwhelmed by the incredible public response to this effort. We were not expecting to collect nearly so many signatures and would have been happy with half the amount.

Once the petition signatures are validated by each town's registrar of voters and handed in to the Secretary of State's office, the issue of cruise missile tests will go to the state Legislature. The Legislature must either pass the groups' resolution opposing the tests or send it on to the voters for consideration. If it is sent on to the voters, the question, "Do you favor stopping cruise missile tests in Maine?" will appear on the November 1989 ballot.

Cruise missile tests are scheduled to begin in the next few months and continue well into the 1990s. The three groups undertook this effort to stop the tests, because of concerns with the destabilizing aspects of the sea-launched cruise missile.

A note from the publisher

Even before the election results were in, I told a friend of mine—a staunch Republican—he'd better hope George Bush stays healthy for four years so we don't have to put up with Dan Quayle. He said he was just hoping that Jim Baker stays healthy for four years.

Now that Bush has appointed Baker as his nominee for secretary of state, I think I'll adopt my friend's position and say a little prayer for Baker each night.

As reported in The Citizen last week, there were no real surprises in the election, except for the strong turnout of voters locally. Whereas nationally less than 50 percent of citizens eligible to vote actually went out and voted, here in western Maine, town clerks reported the turnout to generally be between 65 and 80 percent, with Hanover reporting a whopping 90 percent.

As reported two weeks ago, the mock election at Telstar turned out to be quite prophetic. The results there heralded the results in the real election accurately except for one race. That was the contest between Ed Erwin (Democrat of Rumford) and Gary Bickford (Republican of Jay) for Erwin's senate seat.

Bickford led Erwin in the Bethel-area and Wilton and Rangely-area towns, but Erwin demolished Bickford in the mill towns of Rumford, Mexico, and Jay. Bickford was viewed by the paperworkers in those towns as anti-union.

It's interesting to note that the only towns in Oxford County that came out for Dukakis over Bush were Rumford, Mexico, Dixfield and Peru. (Jay, in Franklin County, also went for the Democratic candidate.)

Another interesting footnote to the election: the county that gave the largest majority to Bush was Lincoln County, with 62 percent. Oxford County was 56 percent for the Republican candidate.

Letters

To the Editor:

It is by no means over with last week's farce of a trial in Rockland. Only a new beginning to the fight in this, The Oxford Travesty. Psalms, 27 through 94 fit the occasion.

All the evidence and testimony presented, and cross-examined, without any doubt, proved me to be not guilty. Any impartial observer clearly witnessed that fact, and also the daily screening and censoring of key reporters, by the AG's office, as they headed out. I trust this fine paper will please set the record straight and make public Federal Document #35G, titled the "Grossman Report." It gives the state power and authority to legally jury tamper in cases of high interest, [with] loss of credibility. This is such a case: one of false arrest, illegal indictment, unjust incarceration, 27 documented criminal offenses against my family and myself, and a bought-and-paid-for jury, [bought and paid for] by the state. The 13+ hours of deliberation, which included lunch, did not afford that jury the time required to read and evaluate 3 1/2 hours of printed and written evidence. You be the judge of what happened.

I was, in fact, proven not guilty—and there is no need for a defense, which is why there wasn't one.

The evidence was indisputable proof of my innocence. I have already demanded an immediate retrial, and an appeal in a non-corrupt federal court, under the values and honored rights of the U.S. Constitution.

Only two witnesses gave false testimony, attributed to memory over the nine year lapse, and are forgiven. The gun expert never even test pattern fired the gun, did not inspect the inner mechanism, and admitted it malfunctioned and misfired. Neither did he check the age through the serial number, or questioned the stripped screw heads. Witnesses after witness substantiated the suicide, not the fictitious homicide.

My attorney did exceptionally well, and I commend him. But he, too, has been screwed by his own bar oath and through a conspiracy by the state prosecution. I pray God will interview and confirm the truth, overpowering the evil beast and atheistic force of the state egotists, and all the co-conspirators.

I thank you one and all. May God be with you and bless you all forever.

Maine Handicapped Skiing wishes to thank Herb Kittredge and other members of the Windy Valleys Snowmobile Club who volunteered with them last season. Norm Duran, Willard Wight, Herb and others helped the program by giving handicapped students rides up the slopes on snowmobiles and in attached sleds.

Handicapped students usually ride the snowmobile or sled when they are first learning to ski and soon advance to ride the chairlift. For some students, the snowmobile or sled may be the only feasible means of uphill transportation. Many would not be able to experience the joys and challenges of downhill skiing without the assistance of volunteer snowmobile drivers who provide rides uphill.

Maine Handicapped Skiing is looking forward to another fun-filled season and is in need of more volunteer snowmobile drivers and another sled for one of the snowmobiles. Interested persons may contact Maine Handicapped Skiing, at 824-2440, for further information.

smaller stores. A development firm from Vermont is the moving force behind the project.

In other matters, the board approved Brian Strickland's site plan review application for the change-of-use in the commercial space on the ground floor of the Naimay Block.

Following a public hearing, the board approved the subdivision application of Bob Bahre for his Bird Hill Estates subdivision—18 lots at the crest of Bird Hill. The board, in response to concerns expressed by residents of the road, agreed to send a letter to the selectmen and town manager suggesting they urge Greenwood to improve the lower portion of Bird Hill Road.

Bob Bahre signed an agreement with the Bethel Board of Selectmen last week in which the two parties agreed to work together to widen, grade and drain the Bethel portion (the upper portion) of the road. But Mr. Bahre's representative, Bob Faunce, told the Planning Board and the concerned residents that Greenwood officials have been unwilling to sign a similar agreement.

Mr. Faunce said he is still working on the matter and hopes to have the opportunity to address Greenwood voters at a possible special town meeting. He said the developer is willing to shoulder most of the costs. The road project would cost Greenwood as little as $2,500, he said.

voters that the bond on the ballot would not even come close to paying for the system and that there would be more bond issues later on if the system were ever to be built.)

Much has been said about the mud-slinging resorted to in many of this year's campaigns—mud-slinging referring to candidates distorting their opponents' records. In Maine contests for seats in Washington, the least dirty and most principled campaign—that is, the campaign that spotlighted issues and allowed voters to hear views on both sides of issues—was in the Mitchell/Wyman race. Challenger Jasper Wyman posed very clear alternatives to beliefs held by incumbent Senator George Mitchell.

The upshot was, of course, that Mitchell won by the largest margin ever amassed in a senatorial contest in Maine—over 80 percent. I hope that this does not indicate that voters felt Wyman's views were too cerebral or too far out. I hope it indicates only that Mainers simply like Mitchell.

Myself, I felt that Wyman's views were, if anything, too honest. For example, his view that Loring Air Force Base (and other unneeded bases) should be closed is a rational approach towards cutting the federal budget. But no Maine politician will say it. And his endorsement of the Canadian-U.S. free trade agreement puts him with the majority of Americans. But no Maine politician will take this position. Even Wyman's confrontation of Mitchell's view of God ("God does not take sides in American politics") was refreshingly honest and astute. How does Mitchell happen to know the will of God? Wyman asked.

I think one of the lessons to be learned by this highly intelligent politician is that too much honesty may be bad politics.

To the Editor:

I have been contacted by a press person who suggested that I notify each daily and weekly newspaper of a public hearing for the proposed Solid Waste Management Rules. I would like to take this opportunity to do that. Copies of the draft rules have currently been sent to approximately 1,000 people, including the key official in each municipality. There are many copies still available in case your newspaper or any of your readers would like a copy. The details about the hearing and comment period are summarized below.

The Board of Environmental Protection has posted draft revisions to the Solid Waste Management Rules to a public hearing. The public hearing is scheduled for 9 a.m. to approximately 9 p.m. on Nov. 17 and to continue at 9 a.m. on Nov. 18. Group forms to promote land trusts in local area

Over 25 area residents attended a presentation Oct. 24, at Telstar Regional High School, by an expert on land trusts. The movie, talk, and question-answer session was given by Community Land Trust Coordinator Tom Wood, of the Maine Coast Heritage Trust.

Following the session, a group of local residents met to prepare the articles of incorporation necessary to form a private, non-profit land trust.

Mr. Wood described the manner in which landowners throughout the country are granting conservation easements to land trusts, obtaining tax benefits and helping to maintain traditional farming, forestry, and wildlife areas in the wake of increasing development.

Typically, Mr. Wood explained, owners of woodlots, farms, or other undeveloped land in growing towns find their property being assessed at greatly increased values, to the point that keeping the property in the family is difficult or impossible. By granting a land trust the development rights to a portion of the property through a conservation easement, the landowner can achieve reductions in income tax, inheritance tax, and property tax.

The key to the conservation easement is its flexibility, Mr. Wood explained. In one case a woodlot owner might grant an easement to a land trust restricting his right to construct buildings, but maintaining all other rights, such as his right to harvest timber, clear the land, hunt, and trap. He would be giving away some of the property's value, in return for reduced taxes. The land trust in turn would be charged with the responsibility of monitoring the property, at least annually, to assure that no buildups were being constructed.

For more information on land trusts, or to join the local land trust group, call the group's secretary, William Pooley, at 824-2236.

Local cross country skiers head for Newfoundland to prepare for new season

For the second consecutive year, cross country skiers from Gould Academy and Telstar Regional High School will embark this Friday for a place where a Thanksgiving snow is guaranteed—this year to Labrador City in Newfoundland—in order to begin the ski season with 10 days of on-snow technique, strength, and endurance training.

Supported, in part, by the Bethel Outing Club, the trip will involve four coaches and 16 local skiers, as well as a handful of skiers from New Hampshire and Vermont, who have been invited on account of their skiing potential. The entire group will be training for cross-country, and several will bring rifles in order to do biathlon training as well.

The journey to Labrador City will involve a six-hour drive to the airport in Quebec City, followed by a flight of several hundred miles due north to the large iron-ore mining city, which in recent years has become a mecca for serious athletes from all over the United States and Canada, due to its early snow and extensive trail system designed by American Olympic silver medalist Bill Koch.

Participants include: Scott Emery, of Bethel, Paige Christie, of Rumford, Kevin Davis, of Bethel, Corrie Barnett, of New Vineyard, Kristin Powell, of Bethel, Kim Hatfield, of Belfast, Paul Koubek and Zachary Aldrich, of Damariscotta, Morgan Ash, of Wharton, Ill., Derek Newton, of Jericho, Vt., Martha Newell, of Bethel, Patrick Bullinger, of Baden-Wuerttemberg, West Germany, Jamie Upham, of Farmington, Brant Remington, of Bethel, Josh Gagnon, of Auburn, Alex Lafoue, of Derby, Vt., Caitlin Perkins, of Jackson, N.H., Adrienne Otto, of Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., Jason Walz, of Troy, N.H., Aleks Hickey, of Cape Vincent, N.Y., and Patrick Leary, of Fitzwilliam, N.H.

The coaching staff is led by team leader and Gould Academy nordic coach, Bob Remington, Gould biathlon director, Kirk Siegel, and Gould cross-country running coach, Bonnie Pooley.

Commissioners set taxes for unorganized territories

The mill rate for fiscal 1989 for the unorganized territories in Oxford County was set by the county commissioners last Thursday at $3.78 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. This is a decrease from last year's mill rate, which was $5.30 per $1,000 in valuation.

The unorganized territories affected by this rate are Albany Township, Mason Township and Milton Plantation.

The county commissioners, with the help of David Salway, Tim Kavanagh and Terry Perry, of Albany, Dewey Thayer, of Mason, and John Halacy, of Milton, also worked on next fiscal year's budget for the unorganized territories. The draft budget earmarks $443,700 for these areas, compared to $403,000 in the current fiscal year. The largest increase is in the roads and bridges account, which was increased by $50,000, to $130,000, in order to pave 7 mile known as the Kings Highway.

school for flute lessons had the support of the band director, but Superintendent Dewaine Craig refused to make a recommendation, and Telstar High School Principal Ted Davis (no relation to Harry Davis) told the board he had reservations about the current practice of allowing the band director to use school property free of charge to offer music lessons for which he charges a fee.

Discussion of the student's request focused on the fact that she would be charging a fee for the class and on the question of liability, especially in view of the fact that she is a minor.

"I think you're going to establish a very dangerous precedent," said Ray Harrington, of Greenwood. "What if some other student comes along and wants to offer a class in karate or handguns?"

Urging the board to approve the request, Stan Howe, of Bethel, cited the "desperate need" for a better music program.

And the liability would not be a problem, he argued, as long as the board reviewed each such request on a case-by-case basis. "Life is a matter of taking risks," he said, "and just how big a risk are we really talking about here?"

Nonetheless, the board narrowly rejected the request. Following the rejection, however, Superintendent Craig noted that there was nothing to prevent the student from filling out a room request and paying the $10 fee. And board members Marjorie Osgood, of Newry, and Nancy Dewing, of Greenwood, who both voted against the request, said they would see no problem with the student using a room under such conditions.

In other action, the board agreed to a request from Carroll Murphy, of Bethel, that officials from the Bureau of Curriculum of the State Department of Education and Cultural Services be invited to the district to review the amounts of instructional time at the district's elementary schools. [See related story.]

Mr. Murphy is one of the parents opposed to the district's policy of releasing elementary students early on Wednesdays in order to free their teachers to pursue professional development activities. He contends that the early release results in the pupils receiving less than the legal minimum of 25 hours of instructional time per week.

In personnel actions Monday, the board approved Julie Daye, R. Bruce Goodrich, Nancy Howe and James R. Lowe as substitute teachers; also Donald L. Hoyt as a substitute transportation worker; also Phyllis Buchanan and Doreen Benson as part-time instructional aides at the Woodstock School; also John Emery as Andover Elementary School basketball coach and Shirley Seames and Jolene Shipman as WES basketball coaches.

Board members Richard Crandall, of Bethel, Debra Poland, of Woodstock, and Gail Sysko, of Newry, did not attend Monday's meeting.

push it no higher, and David Walker and Nancy Babcock, of Newry, won the right to select which lot they preferred. They preferred the largest lot—3.2 acres. And they wanted only the one lot.

The bidding then started again, at $10,000, and worked its way up to $16,000, in $1,000 increments. The high bidder was Les Otten, of Newry, and he chose the second-largest lot—2.5 acres—and just that lot.

Bidding began again at $10,000, and again worked its way up to $16,000, where it stalled. The high bidder was again Mr. Otten, and he took the third largest lot—2 acres, and no others.

For the final time the bidding started, again at $10,000. This time it managed to get up to just $15,000. The winner was again Mr. Otten, who took the remaining lot, of 1.9 acres.

The Board of Selectmen, which had reserved the right to reject any and all bids, then voted to accept the bids and sell the lots.

Thus ended a long saga, starting years ago when Town Meeting authorized the selectmen to sell lots at the airport. The selectmen offered the lots to local businessmen, five of whom put money down on the lots. The selectmen almost sold one of the lots that Bob Saunders had spoken for when they worked out the deal with GAMM last year.

This summer the selectmen again found themselves in a quandary because Mr. Otten, who had a deposit on one of the lots, wanted the Town to live up to the contract, which stated the lots would be sold for $10,000, if not sold at auction. For months the selectmen met behind closed doors with town counsel, trying to decide what to do. The final decision was to sell the lots at auction.

Mr. Otten said he would use his three lots for light industrial purposes—as specified in restrictions on the deeds—in ways that would benefit the town. He said he would start work on the lots in the spring. Mr. Otten purchased the lots as an individual, not as the principal owner of the Sunny River Skiway Corp.

David Walker said he and Nancy Babcock would probably use their lot for cold storage lockers and for heated rental space. He said they would develop the property within the two-year time limit stated in the restrictions of the deed.

The focus will be on the concept of mittee members. Eventually, the committee concurred on five suggestions to present to the board: eliminating the Wednesday field trips whenever possible, eliminating early release on Wednesdays from Dec. 21 through Jan. 18, attempting to incorporate more community resources in scheduling programs for Wednesday afternoons, discontinuing after-school child care activities (due to low enrollments) and reconvening the ad hoc committee later in the school year to explore options for next year.

Mr. Murphy said later he was pleased to have at least eliminated Wednesday field trips, but he expressed frustration that there was little discussion during the meeting of proposals that would actually keep the pupils in school on most Wednesdays.

"Even taking away the four Wednesdays in December and January presupposes that the program is staying," he said. "They just refuse to discuss keeping the kids in school—where they belong."

There was, in fact, very little discussion of possible ways of keeping the children in school on Wednesdays. What little of this there was focused almost entirely on the expense, impracticability or inconvenience of such options.

Most of the meeting, rather, was spent reiterating the arguments for the policy, which had already been spelled out at numerous SAD #44 board meetings.

And the arguments that didn't convince policy opponents in the past didn't convince them last week.

"I'm just not satisfied with their answers," Mr. Murphy said.

"They say, 'Focus on the positives, not the negatives.'" Mrs. Rolfe said. "Well, I'm going to keep focusing on the negatives, for myself and all the other parents who are concerned about this."

Anyone wishing a complimentary issue should call the Society office or write to the Society, at P.O. Box 12, Bethel, Maine 04217.

Among recent visitors to the Dr. Moses Mason House have been the 4th Grade from Rumford Elementary School and groups from the Lovell and Harrison historical societies. The antiques class at Hammons House toured the museum on Saturday.

The annual volunteer dinner for those who worked in the museum as guides and on the gardens and grounds will be held Friday, Nov. 18, beginning at 6 p.m.

Paradise Hill was named by the famous clergyman Thomas Starr King, who spent several years exploring the White Mountain area between 1849 and 1859 before departing to spend the rest of his life in California. Exactly when King visited Bethel is not clear, but "Paradise" is the name that seems to have been applied to the hill above Bethel Hill from the 1850s. Starr King has been credited with keeping California allied with the North during the Civil War. His statue is included in the Hall of Statues, located in the rotunda of the Capitol, in Washington, D.C.

Now that the leaves have gone from the river maples as well as leaves on other trees on the riverbank, it gives us a clear view of the river. It reflects all of the colors that are in the sky. When the sun comes up with its never-ending changing of colors they are also reflected in the river. When the sun shines on a certain spot it causes diamond-like sparkles as the water flows on to its destination. When the full of the moon shines across the river it causes a ribbon of light. Soon the river will start to freeze and we will have an altogether different picture. In the summer one cannot see the river in a lot of places although when one is outside we can stand at some locations and look out to the river. Since Frank has cleared for the apple trees we can also see the mountains so even though we are away from the crowd I still love the location. Sometimes people will come and say, "Oh, what a beautiful spot, but I wouldn't want to live here!"

The wind has blown hard a couple of nights blowing off some of the dead limbs from trees.

The last weekend in October Joe and Gerry Shimamura had as visitors Thelma Merrill's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Carson, their daughter, Ann Currier, and granddaughter, Rachel, of Concord, N.H. After visiting the Shimamura's they went to Ledgeview Nursing Home in West Paris to visit Thelma on Saturday. Also coming Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bond, of Pittsfield, N.H., and they also visited his sister, Thelma. Sunday Walter and Carolyn Bond and Gerry Shimamura went to the Nazarene Church in Norway as Gerry's grandchildren, Shandy and Bylan, were dedicated. These are the children of Bill and Dawn Shimamura.

Nov. 7 Ernest and Alberta Angevine took their daughter, Barbara Willard, to Portland Jetport. She flies into El Paso, Texas and then has to drive to her home in Ruidoso, N.M.

Dick and Sue Angevine took his sister, Barbara Willard, to the Boiler Room, Nov. 6.

Frank came home Nov. 6 from his hunting trip—he says he was about 50 miles from Houlton—with a 210-pound buck. It has nine points and, as it was gotten the first Saturday, it hadn't been run.

Sylvia Benson visited her sister, Judy Small, and niece Kim, the weekend of Nov. 5, in Hebron. They went shopping and had dinner out.

August Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Murphy, of Sebago, called her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Murphy, Nov. 8, to make Thanksgiving plans. Thanksgiving will be here before we know it.

Allison Chapman, granddaughter of Frank and Ida Chapman, and her mother, Louise Chapman, have just come back from Suffolk, England. They went to visit Allison's sister, Sarah Chapman, who is going to college for her first semester in England. After Christmas she will be going to New England College, in Henniker, N.H.

Sam and Sarah Chapman, with their son Brady, have moved into their new home on Chapman Hill. Mary Chapman and son Errol have moved into their new trailer home on Chapman Hill.

Charles Mason and other hunters have been staying at Ben Gordon's camp for hunting.

Dr. Lennie Shaw and Becky Shaw, Jean Anton, Don Cross and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Strout went to The Country Way for a smogboard as they won free tickets for best shooting at Norway/South Paris Fish and Game.

Bob Howe had the week of Nov. 6 off for a vacation. Nov. 5 Bob Howe and cousin Rex Cummings went hunting and Rex got a bear on this side of the river. Nov. 5 Linda Howe went to Rumford to a meeting of hand-spinning. Linda has angora rabbits.

At least it didn't rain this Veterans Day, but we have been having a lot of wind. Our little man who saws wood when the wind blows must have got a goodly amount sawed up today.

"Frankie" brought Theresa up this morning so I had them and invited Ira and Wilfred over for dinner, with Frank and I made six. I opened up a package of deer. Had some beets someone gave us, pickles from our cukes and cider from our apples. If we had raised potatoes we would have almost gotten our whole dinner. Wilfred came up from Lewiston to help his brother for the day.

News from

Woodstock School

Congratulations to Matthew Koskela, Grade 3, for becoming our first quarter spelling bee champ! Amanda Jordan was runner-up.

From inside the classroom:
Grade 1—Mrs. Shimamura: Mrs. "Shim" has arrived and along with her came the Grade 1 magic word, "Write". On Tuesday, the children all wrote stories and illustrated them. Then we shared them together in the afternoon. What a great bunch of authors and illustrators are in our class.

Mrs. "Shim" is glad to be back!
Grade 3—Miss Morin: 3rd-graders will be working on geological maps. If parents could send in a large piece of cardboard for their child it would be helpful.

Resource Room—Mrs. Caddigan: The Resource Room students are enthused about our "Adopt-A-Grandparent" program with Ledgeview Nursing Home in West Paris.

Each student has been matched with a "grandparent" to become acquainted with over this school year.

A special Thanksgiving project will be completed and shared when we visit with them before the holiday.

The students just completed letters with pictures, introducing themselves, which have been sent to them.

Special recognition to Scot Palmer who has become the most eager reader and writer in the Resource Room. We are all very proud of him.

FOCUS—Mrs. Nielsen: Evaluations for students in the academic FOCUS program will be sent home at the end of the semester in January.

A group of 6th-grade students in the FOCUS program introduced students in Grades 3, 4, 5, and 6 to the "Candidates Bush and Dukakis".

Woodstock students supported Vice-President Bush in the election later on that day (Thursday, Nov. 3).

Kindergarten—Mrs. Gamble: On Friday, Nov. 18, our class has been invited to attend the Kinderkonzert at the Guy E. Rowe School in Norway. This is a concert presented by the Portland Symphony Orchestra with music especially for children. It is a wonderful opportunity to have the children hear quality classical music. Because the concert is scheduled for 10:30 a.m., all Kindergarten students will attend for a full day on Nov. 18.

A Thanksgiving Feast is planned for Nov. 21. This day will also be a full day for all Kindergarten students.

Then you will find in days to come/When taken all together,
These little steps did change and make/The world a little better.

Helen Jordan and I served as ballot clerks last Tuesday. We filled the gaps between duty and chatting with the voters with knitting and gabbing. Some of the ballots were a bit different and took some study of regulations before acceptance by those in charge. A few had a write-in without address, and these portions had to be rejected. It is easier and faster in counting ballots if everyone sticks to the rules carefully.

I made an error concerning the building in Errol. The C.L. Construction is building a hardware store; the schoolhouse is being built nearer the present one. Some misunderstanding of question and answer in Errol.

WOODSTOCK HUNTERS' SUPPER—There were plenty of pick'n's at the annual Hunters' Supper, sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of the Woodstock Fire Department. And there was no shortage of pickers, as the Woodstock Town Hall was filled to overflowing with residents who showed up to chow down and support their local fire department.

Next meeting will be Nov. 21 for "Thankful night".

The Sunday School teachers of the Baptist Church held a meeting on Tuesday evening to start plans for the Christmas program, a tentative date is Dec. 19.

CUB SCOUT PACK DISBANDS

Cub Scout Pack #566 is no longer active. However, the current charter is valid until Dec. 31, 1988. If anyone is interested in rebuilding the pack, they may contact the Pine Tree Council, in Portland, at 797-5552.

Scout leader Janice Harrington said the pack dissolved because of lack of parental involvement and support, lack of child participation, and a general lack of interest.

West Greenwood

Marjorie Westleigh and Annie Olson visited Irene Wilson one day this week. Bob Lowe has a different truck. Bob and Jane Rolfe were in North Conway on Friday.

Hope that more of you folks will be willing to call and contribute some news for the column. I try never to put in anything about people that wasn't given to me for the paper by someone involved. Some of your neighbors may snicker about "having your name in the paper", but you can bet they will be one of the first to read what others are willing to share.

The last issue of the "Maine Times" has an article on recycling that is well worth reading. Even though Maine is no New York or New Jersey, the population of the state is growing and so is the problem of getting rid of the trash.

According to the paper on recycling newspapers, magazines and glass, which I picked up at the town office, the Town of Greenwood saved $423 last year by recycling 8½ tons of glass and we save $30/ton for the newspapers and magazines that we don't have to ship to the landfill. I found that impressive. I have been sorting our trash since, and wish I had realized before how much the town saves. What saves money for the town saves money for us, right?

Scouts need uniforms; help food collection drive

Cub Scout Pack 155, of Lovell/Stoneham, has 36 Scouts this year. Many of these are new Scouts—Scouts without uniforms—and uniforms are expensive.

At a recent committee meeting, the adult leaders of the pack decided to try to establish a uniform bank for this year's Scouts and for Scouts in years to come. Starting with donations of outgrown and no-longer-used uniforms from the community and supplemented only when necessary from monies raised from recent popcorn sales, the committee hopes to insure that all the boys have the opportunity to have a complete uniform.

If anyone has any uniform pieces—shirts, hats, neckerchiefs, etc., that they would be willing to donate they may leave them at the Central Lovell or East Stoneham CCC churches or call 928-2611 to arrange to have them picked up.

Other business discussed at the meeting included sharing preliminary information about the Nationwide Good Turn "Scouting for Food", on Nov. 12 and Nov. 19. Youth and adult volunteers from the Pine Tree Council will distribute and then collect plastic bags to be filled with non-perishable goods. It is an ideal time to show what Scouting is capable of accomplishing as a movement working together. Lovell/Stoneham Cub Scout Pack 155 will be involved in this effort. The Scouts, volunteer helpers, drivers and leaders met at the Central Lovell Church at 10 a.m. on Nov. 12 and broke up into teams to distribute the bags in Stoneham, Center Lovell and Lovell Village.

This Saturday, Nov. 19, they will meet again at the same time and place to collect the bags. They will be returned to the church where they will be sorted. Items needed for the church's Christmas boxes will be left with the church. The remaining goods will be taken to the Food Pantry, based at the Stoneham Fire Station. The pantry serves the residents of Albany, Sweden, Stoneham, Lovell, and East, South and North Waterford.

The bags resemble Shop 'N Save's plastic carry-out bags and have Scout insignia and more information about the program printed on them. If someone does not receive a bag, but would like to, or would like more information, they may call the Cub Master at 928-2340.

First Pack meeting will be held Nov. 21 at the VFW Hall in Lovell at 6:45 p.m. Popcorn sales were tallied. Webelos Scout Rhod Hayes, Sweden, was top Pack salesman with 57 units sold.

Greenwood City

By COLISTA MORGAN

Frosty nights now bring frosty dawn when the bushes and twigs and weeds along the pond are covered with a soft frost. They stay that way, a fantastic world of white, until the sun is well up.

As I write, the sun has just peeked into the valley, it's late, but its rays are beginning to dissolve the mist clinging to the pond. It's a typical fall morning, crisp in the shadows, warm in the sun after a cool night.

Our weather this week has had a great variation. This short article certainly can't begin to describe weather. But have you ever stopped to think about the natural phenomena in the skies? the stars, the moon, the sun and what they do? We talk much about the weather but think little why it is so. Take for instance the clouds and the several kinds: cumulus, which mean heap and look like puffy, curvy, clouds that curl in beautiful swirls; stratus means layers; nimbus means rain. These are gray and close to the earth. I remember to this day a science class when I learned about them and also about a class when I taught them.

Both clouds and weather vary somewhat within a region because of differences in geography and plant life. There is so much to learn about weather and climate and I know so little. We often talk about signs, such as the width of the stripe on a caterpillar and the height of the bees' nest from the ground. The latter is fascinating, that gray, football sized hornets' nest which dangles clumsily from a tree branch. I saw one this week, low down, when it is supposed to indicate there will be little snow this winter.

The owls seem to be most vocal in frosty November. I can hear them on "Hoot-Hill" beyond the pond. I think of them as three-hooters but often there is a four hoot series, three hoots, a pause, then four hoots, seven in all. "Hoo, Hoo-Hoo, Hoo, Hoo-Hoo-Hoo."

This is a lovely time to walk, even just in the road. It's good, too, to stand in my yard and gaze at the placid pond under a blue-white sky. Autumn never gives a hoot as to its image. Dry goldenrod and aster substitute for daisy and buttercup in the meadow. The air is crackling and brown seed cases are everywhere. Autumn's meticulous coiffure is sadly disheveled. Many people describe autumn as sadness. But I love the fall of the year, all of it, especially my emotional response to it. There's a lonely longing, restlessness and yearning, a strange sadness—but there's the gorgeous landscape and tangy air.

So I walked and returned home realizing that it's time for colder weather. There will still be things to see. The deer, fox and I will wander through the fall and winter, as we have wandered through the spring and summer—listening, looking, prying, sniffing and ever interested in our surroundings.

I had two rides on unknown roads this week and enjoyed both so much. My second ride took me to farm country where I saw farm animals everywhere. In one place we met a flock of sheep coming down the road to meet us. They came as near as they dared then went into a pasture. There were guinea hens, bantam hens, rabbits, horses, cows and one big black pig.

David, Mary and Ann Holt were home on Sunday. I joined the family for dinner. Several from here attended the supper at West Paris Grange Hall given for Joan Poland who had just returned home from the hospital after a serious accident.

Our Halloween was interesting because of the costumes and courteous little ghosts. Rena Curtis' son-in-law, from Freeport, has been at her home for the week to go hunting. His wife, Colista Cogswell, and son Troy, were there for the weekend. Betty and Rena Curtis were in Lewiston one day. Other callers at Rena's home were Mr. and Mrs. Glenn

So. Woodstock

By OLIVE R. DAVIS

Nov. 1 Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brooks, Bertha Benoit and I attended Pomona at Norway in a pouring rain. It was a good meeting in spite of the rain. Bertha put on her first program as she is Pomona Lecturer.

Richard Felt, Florence Gustafson and Lucille Robbins also attended Pomona in this area.

Taisto Koskela has injured his back working. I was over and called on him and I also called on Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Fleming the same day.

Bertha Benoit took Florence Gustafson and I to Mystic Valley's musical program on Friday night. A 6:30 p.m. supper was served before the meeting.

Many were at the polls in Bryant Pond to vote today. It seems that people turned out well everywhere.

A bear was seen on Curtis Hill recently. You had better watch out or you might be climbing trees for safety.

We are sorry to hear of the death of Mrs. Waito Koskela, Sr. the past week. We extend our sympathy to the bereaved family.

We held an open house at Franklin Grange #124 last night. The public was invited in to hear Lowell Kjenstad from the Cole Foundation. The object was to help the adult poor readers so they may be able to enjoy this accomplishment and to be able to fill out important papers. By contacting them, Mr. Kjenstad said they will find a tutor to help them acquire this skill that everyone needs badly, without embarrassment to the person who needs help.

One of the students that had been studying for the last few years told us of his accomplishments and was very proud of it. We had some musical numbers between the question and answer periods. The Grange orchestra entertained also. Our next meeting will be Thanksgiving night and the Grange report will be given by two delegates. David Murphy and four of the teachers were present besides many visiting Grange members. Refreshments were served and a social hour held.

Aubrey and Sheila Daye will spend the winter in Norman and Louise Tetley's house, while they are in Florida. Strait and two children, of Freeport, John, Albert and Fred T. Curtis, of Buckfield. Rena was at Stephens Memorial Hospital in Norway a couple of times to visit her new great-grandson, Spencer Ryan.

West Bethel

By CONSTANCE BROADBENT

Dear Thomas,
Happy birthday, as you reach the quarter century mark! It seems like only yesterday that you were pulling wings off flies, or zapping them in mid-air with your hand-fashioned slingshot. Do you think you could revive the art for a few days? We've been invaded this week by hundreds of the dirty buggers whose dormancy was interrupted by a sunny warm spell. I don't know how they manage to appear inside a closed-up building, but they come to life one or two at a time, just to taunt us. We're sick of swatting; the vacuum bag is full of bodies...help! Justin Gilbert was earning a nickel a fly at last report from great-grandmother Grace. I'll raise the ante to six cents for your services!

Service is something that flows in abundance in West Bethel, as you know. And several people in our village and in Mason Township were recently honored for devoting as many as 50 and 75 years to the Grange. When the crowd of well-wishers gathered at the Pleasant Valley Grange Hall to congratulate Wilbur Davis for 75 years, Olive Head and Grace Morrill for 50 years, and Mary Jo Butler for 25 years, they joined State Master Curtis Lombard in praising the long-term members. Assisting him with the presentations of pins and citations were Marie Lombard, State Flora; Clyde Berry, State Overseer; Halia Bemis, State Lecturer; and Myrtle and Louis Bisbee, State Deputies.

I read again from Grace Morrill's "Golden Sheath Certificate" the other day. It was issued at Washington, D.C., and enrolls her "in the permanent record of those who have devoted half a century of service to the order to agriculture and to mankind." Our local Board of Selectmen recognized the distinction of so many years of service with a letter to each honoree, noting "It is unusual in this fast-paced era to find someone as dedicated to an organization whose services benefit the community as does the Grange; and 50 (25, 75) years is certainly a tremendous commitment."

Let's look at this kind of commitment in algebraic terms. You loved math, remember? Let's let $x = 25$; your age, and Mary Butler's years of service to the Grange. Then $2x + n$ in a few extra represents my age or Olive's and Grace's Grange years. Wilbur Davis' Grange commitment is thus equal to $3x$. It then follows that $x + 2(2x + n) + 3x = 6x + 2n$ or $200 + 2n$ years of service and burnt candles! That's a lot of x 's of supers and sales, and dances and meetings.

Grace's Grange memories go back even further than the 50 years for which she was cited. She actually joined as a young woman in Bethel at age 14. She remembers heading out via horse and buggy or horse and sleigh for a Thursday night meeting or a Saturday night dance. The later dances at West Bethel were great fun, she remembers. Music flowed from the fingers of a pianist, a fiddler, and a drummer; there were no discs to jockey back then.

Speaking of discs, you missed the annual cookie walk at the West Bethel Union Church Fair. (Remember the coffee tin crammed with various cookies that you used to receive on board the "Prairie"? They came from the last three "cookie walks".) Last week's fair itself was a tremendous success. The doors opened at 2 p.m., and by 2:30 p.m. all the food and cookies and most of the hand-crafted items were sold. The knit and stitched goods, wood crafts, dried arrangements, and ornaments sold at one end of the hall; Clara Rolfe poured coffee for thirsty shoppers at the other end. Leftover items will be offered again at the Greens Sale, on Dec. 3. (Your father is doing his part for that one by cutting cardboard frames by the hundreds for the wreaths. I hope you weren't saving that stereo carton.) So the ladies did it again. They put their talents to the test, offered the results to the public, and beefed up their account by "mucho dolares". Nancy Grover has done a beautiful quilt in greens and pinks; chances are selling fast. Your name is on several of those chances. If your name is drawn on the day of the Greens Sale, you could always hand it over to your cousin, Carolyn; her bed is the right size and her room is done in the same colors. I know you'd become her all-time favorite male cousin.

In the Who-Went-Where-This-Week Department: Dick and Jane Hosterman went to South Paris to pick up his new hearing aids, and then on to dinner with their friend, Lucille Naas. Richard and Marylou Grover headed for Indiana for the upcoming wedding of their daughter, Cheryl (ina and Rupert are minding their dog, Shadow, and Miss Chicken, who, you recall, was not served up for cousin David's birthday. However...there is still Thanksgiving dinner to consider. Dewey Thayer went to South Paris for a County Commissioners meeting. Helen Saunders, Clara Rolfe and Frances Bennett went to Country Way Restaurant, in South Paris, for a Senior Citizens meeting and luncheon. They enjoyed Sue Farrar's recollections of her trip to China (Asia, that is). Nelson Smith, of Gilead, went to West Bethel with his bulldozer. He was last seen grading Emerson and Loretta Merrill's new road. When a driveway is a long enough walk to elevate your pulse, it's called a road. Nelson maneuvered his blade on our road last year; he does "Grade A" work, so the Merrills should be pleased.

Arthur Gilbert, Shirley Gilbert, Robert Gilbert, Arthur Head and Don Vautour went into the woods for a three-day hunting trip. They had a grand time talking, and eating, and walking; bagged a few colds and a few lunches, but no deer. At least one of their "widows" used the time well: she clocked a quick 400 miles on her odometer to Massachusetts and back. Had lunch with Muddy (your grandmother) and the girls (your aunts) and beat it back early enough to vote on Tuesday.

Lots of West Bethelites went to town to vote. Twenty of the 25 voters of Mason did likewise. That's a good turnout that was overlooked in the subsequent report. It deserves notice, I think.

On Thursday, last, a group of Grangers went to their November meeting. They gobbled up their own good cooking, marched to the music of Angela Applin, outbid each other in a hilarious auction, voted to buy subscriptions to the Grange newspaper for elder members, and spoke softly (for the benefit of new hearing aid wearers) of the Dec. 15 Christmas meeting.

Now I must conclude this epistle, Tom, so that I can head to Berlin, N.H., that is for typewriter ribbon and a new flyswatter. I can't wait for you're driving me bonkers.

Have a good week. We'll celebrate your silver day again when you arrive for Thanksgiving. Your 25 years are just one of the gifts for which we will say "thank you" this year. Tell cousin Adam that his 25th did not go unnoticed. Leon L. Bean will bring his gift in the mail.

Be wise; move like the tortoise.
Love, C.B.

HITCHIN' A RIDE? A small herd of hoof-loose cattle wandered out to Route 26 between Locke Mills and Bethel one morning last week, perhaps in hopes of escaping south for the winter. But the highway to the wide world offered too many choices (north, as well as south), so they soon gave up the expedition and allowed themselves to be herded back to the security of home.

BETHEL SENIOR CITIZENS

The Bethel Senior Citizen's club met at the Country Way, in South Paris, Nov. 4, with a good attendance.

President Ginny Walker opened the business meeting at 11:30 a.m. with a short reading. Reports were read and accepted. Peggy Coolidge, Sunshine Committee, was absent but sent a message that Christmas baskets will be packed next month and there is a need for money to buy supplies.

Muriel Faudi, program committee, has the Christmas program all planned.

In old business, Ginny Walker reported the December Christmas meeting will be at the Bethel Inn. The day and time of the meeting will be listed in The Citizen. The program will be the bell choir from the Congregational Church. There will be a Christmas tree and everyone is to bring a gift to exchange.

The nominating committee, headed by Helen Saunders, presented its nominees, as follows: president, Muriel Faudi; vice president, Harold Powell; secretary, Barbara Brown; treasurer, Sarah Stevens; sunshine committee, Eunice Powell; finance committee, Earlon Paine; fund-raising, Betty Blake, and Evelyn Reed; trips, Joan Coolidge and Muriel Faudi; program chairman will be decided at the next meeting.

Ronald Stevens won the mystery prize. The birthdays celebrated this month were Mr. and Mrs. Tony Pugliese, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stevens, Ethel Ward

LIGHTS ON SALE FOR SMH TREE

The Stephens Memorial Hospital Auxiliary has finalized its Christmas tree lighting ceremony, to be held Wednesday, Dec. 7, at 5 p.m.

The members of the Auxiliary are selling lights for the tree at $5 each. Anyone wishing to remember or honor a friend or loved one may do so by seeing Auxiliary members or by stopping in at the hospital coffee shop during any weekday. This year's tree lighting is dedicated to the memory of Irving O. Barrows, a life-long supporter of the Hospital.

Those Auxiliary members selling lights include Barbara Douglass, Bethel, and Evelyn Bean, Bryant Pond. Lights will also be on sale at the Crafts Fair to be held in the Oxford Hills High School gymnasium on Nov. 19.

And Mansfield Packard. Following the delicious smorgasboard, Sue Farrar entertained by telling about her delightful trip to China. She greeted us in Chinese and told us she took this trip through the Elderhostel program. They visited the Forbidden City, the Great Wall of China, and many other places. It was very interesting.

NOTES FROM

Telstar Guidance

The second quarter is now underway, with students settling in well to their new course schedules. Guidance began the quarter enrolling two new students and accommodating over 40 program changes for students in Grades 9-12.

Guidance and administration met with the English, Health, Foreign Language, computers and Physical Education departments last week. Discussion centered around the '89-'90 budget process, curriculum and "student groupings." Principal Ted Davis will have the 1989-90 master schedule ready for staff review before Christmas vacation so that Guidance may begin the scheduling process in January. Guidance hopes to include Grades 8-11 in this year's Step-Up program, to be held in late May.

The N.H.S. has been hard at work planning this Sunday's Senior Citizen Thanksgiving dinner and are looking forward to a good turnout of guests. Response from teachers has been good for October student-of-the-month nominations. Winners will be announced next week.

Final verification of student grades are near completion. Mr. Hart encourages parents with any questions or concerns regarding their student's first quarter progress to see him at Open House Thursday, Nov. 17, or call for an appointment. If students experienced difficulty during the first nine weeks, now is a good time to review individual programs.

Representatives visiting Guidance this week are: S.M.V.T.L. and Trinity College Thursday; New England College and Army National Guard, Friday; Air Force recruiter next Monday; Unity College, and Vermont Technical College, next Tuesday. Any community members interested in meeting with any of these people are encouraged to do so.

Shirley Merrill and Brenda Wright's classes took a tour of Patte Brook out in the White Mountain National Forest recently. Students were to take notes on each stop of the tour. Ranger Rick McVey, from the U.S. Forest Service was their guide.

After the trip students had to write a report from the notes they took. Here is one of the reports.

My dad is Ranger Rick. He took my class to the area of the White Mountain National Forest. At the first stop he talked about taking care of the forest, and how the U.S. Forest Service takes care of it. My dad also told us not to pollute and why.

At stop number two Dad took us into a field and talked to us there. On the way to the field we saw deer tracks. He told us why deer and other animals like open fields with apple trees. He also told us the names of some trees. Then he told us why they plant stripes on some trees.

On stop number three we stayed on the bus. Dad talked to us about apple trees and the animals that like apples. He also told us how they try to keep the apple trees producing fruit.

At the next stop Ranger Rick showed us signs of succession. He showed us deer tracks and food deer would eat. Next we went to a place where a sawmill used to be. He let us go across a dam that somebody built. We saw a big saw that had grown into a tree. We saw some metal.

He talked to us about succession and growth sequence. At this stop we stayed on the bus. He told us how trees started to grow in this part of the forest. He also told us that the part of the woods we were looking at used to be a field, which is now trees.

A bog was the main attraction at stop number seven. A glacier from the ice age is believed to have made this bog. Each

At stop number two Dad took us into a field and talked to us there. On the way to the field we saw deer tracks. He told us why deer and other animals like open fields with apple trees. He also told us the names of some trees. Then he told us why they plant stripes on some trees.

On stop number three we stayed on the bus. Dad talked to us about apple trees and the animals that like apples. He also told us how they try to keep the apple trees producing fruit.

At the next stop Ranger Rick showed us signs of succession. He showed us deer tracks and food deer would eat. Next we went to a place where a sawmill used to be. He let us go across a dam that somebody built. We saw a big saw that had grown into a tree. We saw some metal.

He talked to us about succession and growth sequence. At this stop we stayed on the bus. He told us how trees started to grow in this part of the forest. He also told us that the part of the woods we were looking at used to be a field, which is now trees.

A bog was the main attraction at stop number seven. A glacier from the ice age is believed to have made this bog. Each hours of training to use the "Children are People" curriculum in classrooms. All classes will be involved with this program during the year. It is a program designed to have each child recognize their unique self worth, to be able to interact in positive ways with their peers, family, teachers, and community, and to reinforce the dangers of substance abuse in an appropriate manner for each grade level. The materials used by teachers will involve writing, discussion, art, science, and social studies. A presentation for EBS/CPS parents has been planned by the Parent Advisory Council for Dec. 7, at 7:30 p.m., to give parents and teachers the opportunity to further discuss this program.

Teachers have also used the time Wednesday afternoons to have all district teachers meet by grade level. Teachers have been meeting to design and update the curriculum in math, computers, social studies, and science.

The posters drawn by students to help promote a drug-free healthy lifestyle were judged by Mrs. Walton and Ms. Boschetti at CPS. The following children were recognized for their work as being particularly well done: Grade 3 winners were Grayson Wakefield, Teri Chadbourne, and Eric Mills. Honorable mention goes to Jacob Swick, Candy Smith and Brett Harvey; Grade 4 winners were Jessica Rose, Jessie Wight, and Crystal Aylward. Honorable mention goes to Eric Rackliffe, Axel Annis and Cathy Morgan; Grade 5 winners were Daniel Wigley, Amanda Gilbert, Adam Lutton and Cindy Wheeler. Honorable mention goes to Samantha Poland, Alex Gillies, Casey Parker and Mary Jo Reed.

Again a job well done by all students. Mrs. Salway's and Mrs. Cohen's kindergarten classes have both been busy with a "Read To Me Club" that is well underway. Each day the children get to sign out a book to take home. Mrs. Salway's class wrote a book on "Cat Tales" which is a class book of cat stories.

On Nov. 7 Miss Newcomb's 5th-grade social studies classes ran a mock election for the Crescent Park staff and 3rd, 4th and 5th-grade students. Students were really excited as realistic voting booths, made of cardboard boxes, with curtains were set up for the privacy of their vote. Students also followed closely the regular voting procedure and had to give their name to a "ballot clerk" before being allowed to vote. They voted for president, senator, and representative.

The results closely paralleled those of the next election day: George Bush, 132 votes; Michael Dukakis, 41 votes; George Mitchell, 194 votes; Jasper Wyman, 43 votes; Olympia Snowe, 100 votes; Kenneth Hayes, 25 votes.

All three 5th-grade social studies classes visited the polls on election day. Student Adam Newell reported on the voting results for the weekly teacher and parent newsletter.

BLOOD DRIVE NOVEMBER 28

An American Red Cross Blood Drive will be held Nov. 28, 12:30-5:30 p.m., at the West Parish Congregational Church. It is once again sponsored by the Bethel Area Health Center.

The Red Cross notes that some people believe it is possible to contract the AIDS virus through donating blood. There is absolutely no medical evidence to suggest that this is true.

Some people may have developed the impression that the AIDS virus can be transmitted through blood donation because they have heard that the virus has been transmitted through the sharing of needles for injecting illicit drugs and through blood transfusion.

It is true that the AIDS virus has been transmitted through the two avenues listed above. However, it is important to remember that neither the sharing of needles for the use of illicit drugs nor the blood transfusion process has any connection to blood donation.

It is also important for you, a blood donor, to remember the following: Safe, sterile, non-reusable needles and equipment are used to collect blood from each and every donor.

There is no substitute for human blood. And there is no way of knowing when an emergency will create a need for a transfusion. The health center says, you and your fellow community volunteers who are generous enough to give your time and your blood, are vital to maintaining an adequate community blood supply, so that blood will be available for those who need it, when they need it.

The Red Cross blood drives account for one fifth of the blood needed in Maine. If you have questions or concerns about AIDS as it relates to blood donation or blood transfusion, or to make an appointment to donate, call Muriel Whitney, at the Bethel Area Health Center, 824-2193.

THE METHODIST CHURCH FALL FAIR was held last weekend, and Hulda Stevens was busy at one of the craft tables. The fair featured handicrafts, knitwear and baked goods.

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words, comfort and help for your daily life.

The occult or supernatural is currently enjoying quite a vogue in our society. Walk into any well-stocked bookstore and you're likely to find a shelf or two of books devoted to the supernatural. Here you will find subjects such as psychic healing, post-death experiences, UFOs, reincarnation, the power of crystals and pyramids, and astrology. You'll also find books on the power of meditation, dream interpretation, and other equally exotic topics.

Now, I'm certainly not about to dismiss such subjects out of hand as superstitious nonsense. I believe that there is much in the universe that is beyond our comprehension, even the comprehension of trained scientists. The human mind is limited, and to believe that we can grasp the universe in its entirety, and to reduce it all to scientific theories, seems to me the height of arrogance.

But what really amazes me, what causes me to believe in the supernatural, are not these more exotic manifestations. No, what awes me, and forces me to believe in miracles and magic, is the persistence of such commonplace qualities as love and faith. Take love, for example. No scientific theory can account for love. And yet love is the most potent force in reality; capable of giving us a reason

NHS hosts senior citizens at Thanksgiving dinner this Sunday at Telstar

The Telstar National Honor Society will host its sixth annual Senior Citizens Thanksgiving dinner this Sunday at Telstar Regional High School.

Senior citizens residing in SAD #44 are invited to attend this special occasion. The holiday dinner will be served at 2 p.m., in the cafeteria. Following the dinner, entertainment will be provided. The NHS group and their advisors are planning for well over 100 guests. Anyone with questions should call NHS advisor Dan Hart, in the Guidance Department, or NHS president Nathan Bean.

for living, of making life worthwhile. It is a miracle that cannot be explained scientifically, but it is nonetheless intensely real.

Or take faith, for another example. What gives us the courage and the strength to carry on with life, even in the midst of adversities that seem overwhelming. It is faith—the faith that life is worth living, that there is purpose and meaning to our lives. Again, there is no scientific theory or formula that can prove to us that life is worth living, or that our lives have purpose. Only faith can do that, and faith is a mystery. Where does it come from? I can only believe that there is something miraculous about it. It is these commonplace miracles, more than the exotic ones, that convince me of the reality of the supernatural.

Host families needed for Spanish youngsters

The Spanish American Youth Exchange, sponsored by the Bethel Rotary Club, is looking for families to host 20 students from Mijas, Spain, this coming July. These students will be here for approximately two weeks in the middle of July. Activities will be planned for the students during the day.

This will be the second time that students have come to Bethel from Mijas. They were here in July of 1987. This past summer 20 students from the Bethel area traveled to Spain for two weeks.

Twenty students from Bethel will again have the chance to go to Mijas in the summer of 1990. These children should be between the ages of 12 and 14 on Sept. 30, 1989. Most children from Bethel who were members of host families here had the opportunity to go to Spain and to stay with the student who had stayed with them.

For more information, call Nancy Grover, at 838-3333.

Notes from the Woodstock Historical Society

Consider this quote:
"American history could be summed up as a continuing discovery of America—a discovery at great cost and with great rewards—of what the land held, what the people could make of the land, and how its resources could remake people's lives."
—Gilbert Grosvenor

The Society wishes you a happy Thanksgiving. That holiday is certainly one of America's great historic days. The details of the original event may now be a bit clouded by time, but a celebration is still in order nevertheless.

ALBANY CHURCH NEWS

Although regular worship services ended on Sunday, Sept. 25, at the Albany Congregational Church, the church family, committee members, officers, trustees, and pastor, Rev. Norman F. Rust, have been busy with annual Diaconate, Ladies Benevolent Society "Circle" and church meetings, planning work to be done next spring and summer, the annual community Christmas party, and fund-raising events.

The summer worship season began with an evening memorial and baptismal service on May 22 and continued with regular Sunday morning services. These included another baptismal service and a special service at which new pew Bibles were dedicated, having been made possible through funds donated in memory of past church president, James Perkins.

The diaconate and church officers conducted one service. A great deal of special music, arranged by the organist, Edna Bean York, was enjoyed, along with the new electronic organ that was purchased through donations of church family and friends. Holy Communion was observed the first Sunday of each month. On the Sunday of Fourth of July weekend Alice Wardwell presented the church with a new flag for the sanctuary from the Maine Department, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War. Near the end of July, members of the West Bethel Union Church joined the congregation for a joint service followed by a delicious potluck dinner.

A special closeness was again felt by the church family over the past summer as they shared together with God the serious trials faced by many in their midst involving their health and the loss of loved ones. This closeness continues after services have ended through visitations, phone calls, cards and notes that tie the community together in a supportive network of Christian love.

The supper/sale season opened in June, when the church and the Albany Improvement Association held a benefit supper for the Perkins family. The season continued with four suppers during July and August and a special Diaconate supper in September. The church is very grateful for the support of all who contributed through cooking, sale items, helping in the kitchen and with publicity, as well as those who attended.

The major project addressed by Trustees Hugh Stearns, Arthur Wardwell and Alice Wardwell was having a tile floor laid in the diningroom. Workers and guests appreciated the quieter atmosphere compared to that of the bare cement floor. It is planned to have the entryway to the church painted and repaired this fall, as well as having the sanctuary floor stained.

The congregation was fortunate to again have the church grounds attended to by the Richard Bennett family and Carlton Rugg. They also continued to appreciate the service of Ruth Phipps with typing and bulletin preparation.

The annual church meeting was held on Oct. 11. It was agreed to continue to support missions, to include Bangor Theological Seminary, Heifer Project, Pilgrim Lodge, an African mission, Our Christian World Mission, Rockcraft Lodge and Telstar's Project Graduation.

It was also decided that the church would administer an Albany Township Scholarship Fund, with a scholarship to be offered to an Albany resident at graduation. The committee consists of Kathy Bennett, Jean Reynolds and Rev. Norman Rust.

It was also decided to make a donation to the Oxford County United Parish Parsonage Fund. It was reported that members of the Circle continue to contribute annually with donations of needed items to the pancake breakfast for the benefit of the Stoneham Rescue Unit.

Church officers elected included president, Jane Wardwell; vice president, Christine Kimball; clerk, Jean Reynolds; treasurer, Earlton Keniston; trustee, Hugh Stearns; organist, Edna York; historian, Edna York; Diaconate members for three years, Elizabeth Scribner and Doris Fraser; pastor, Rev. Norman F. Rust; Christian education committee, Margaret Barton, Kathy

On the Sunday of Fourth of July weekend Alice Wardwell presented the church with a new flag for the sanctuary from the Maine Department, Daughters of American Veterans of the Civil War. Near the end of July, members of the West Bethel Union Church joined the congregation for a joint service followed by a delicious potluck dinner.

A special closeness was again felt by the church family over the past summer as they shared together and with God the serious trials faced by many in their midst involving their health and the loss of loved ones. This closeness continues after services have ended through visits, phone calls, cards and notes that tie the community together in a supportive network of Christian love.

The supper/sale season opened in June, when the church and the Albany Improvement Association held a benefit supper for the Perkins family. The season continued with four suppers during July and August and a special Diaconate supper in September. The church is very grateful for the support of all who contributed through cooking, sale items, helping in the kitchen and with publicity, as well as those who attended.

The major project addressed by Trustees Hugh Stearns, Arthur Wardwell and Alice Wardwell was having a fire alarm in the dining room. Workers and guests appreciated the quieter atmosphere compared to that of the bare cement floor. It is planned to have the entryway to the church painted and repaired this fall, as well as having the sanctuary floor stained.

The congregation was fortunate to again have the church grounds attended to by the Richard Bennett family and Carlton Rugg. They also continued to appreciate the service of Ruth Bumpus with typing and bulletin preparation. The annual church meeting was held on Oct. 11. It was agreed to continue to support missions, to include Bangor Theological Seminary, Heiler Project, Pilgrim Lodge, an African mission, Our Christian World, Mission, Rockcraft Lodge and Telstar's Project Graduation.

It was also decided that the church would administer an Albany Township Scholarship Fund, with a scholarship to be offered to an Albany resident at graduation. The committee consists of Kathy Bennett, Jean Reynolds and Rev. Norman Rust.

It was also decided to make a donation to the Oxford County United Parish Parsonage Fund. It was reported that members of the Circle continue to contribute annually with donations of needed items to the parsonage breakfast for the benefit of the Stoneham Rescue Unit.

Church officers elected included president, Jane Wardwell; vice president, Christine Kimball; clerk, Jean Reynolds; treasurer, Earlon Keniston; trustee, Hugh Stearns; organist, Edna York; historian, Edna York; Diaconate members for three years, Elizabeth Scribner and Doris Fraser; pastor, Rev. Norman F. Rust; Christian education committee, Margaret Barton, Kathy

Agnes Gray School

By MARTA CLEMENTS

I will begin this week's column with important dates for parents and friends to mark on the calendar.

Our school pictures have come in. We are pleased with the quality and with the service the company is providing. There have been a few mixups, but they will be taken care of. The make-up day for pictures is Nov. 17.

Parent-Teacher conferences will be Monday, Nov. 28. A full agenda will keep us all busy. There will be conferences with classroom teachers and with specialists. There will be the usual book fair—possibly a good time to pick up a few Christmas presents. The Agnes Gray School T-shirts and sweatshirts will be ready to be picked up for those who place orders. They can be picked up at a different time if it's more convenient. And last but not least, on Nov. 28, parents, please come prepared to look through our "Lost and found" collection of clothing.

Students often do not claim their own items. This collection has been displayed in every room and still much goes unclaimed. What is not claimed on Nov. 28 will be disposed of and we will start over again.

Dec. 7 is another date to reserve. We are planning a Christmas concert to be held in the gym, 7-9 p.m., with all grades participating. This should be fun and get us into the spirit of the season. We sincerely invite all who would like to attend to come and support our effort. Your presence is very welcome.

My news from Grade 1 is skippy this week as Mrs. Loper has been out with strep throat. We miss her and want her to get well soon. Her class has been studying about the Pilgrims and her person of the week was Bryan Martin.

Grade 2's have all been studying and learning about elections and on Tuesday, Nov. 8, everyone voted. George Bush received a clear majority, capturing 80 votes, compared to 12 for Dukakis. Our ballot clerks were kept busy with their official duties. The children had discussed issues and voted on Bond Issue #1 concerning the E911 System. The vote was 73 to 23 in favor of the issue. The vote on the proposed Constitutional Amendment to remove gender-biased language saw the amendment defeated: 45 yes votes and 51 no.

Jamie Leonard is "Student of the week" in Grade 2. She has received the special attention this week. On Thursday the 2nd-graders held their second paper airplane contest. This time they were allowed to use more than paper if they thought it would make a better plane. Each flight was measured and Eric Smith came in first, with a distance of 14 meters. Several class members were successful with measurements of approximately 13 meters.

Grades 4, 5, and 6 throughout the district participated in this year's first continental math league. Some of the problems are tough, but they can be solved.

The "Artists of the week" are Austin Hayes and Darcey Robertson for their work on portraits.

When it hasn't been raining, the students have been enjoying a new slippery slide and two tether ball games. We expect our mugs to arrive this week, which will be delivered and will wrap up our successful fund drive.

TELSTAR GRADUATE Scott Haines will spearhead the attack for the Hesser College Blue Devils this year. Haines, who is captain of this year's Blue Devil squad, helped the team forge a 34-8 record last year. Hesser won the Northern New England Small College Conference championship and the National Little College Athletic Association championship. Haines averaged 8.9 points per game and 6.1 rebounds per game during the '87-'88 season.

Through a 9-year-old's eyes

By ALEX GILLIES

It was about 6:30 and it was pitch dark. I opened the front door to let my cats in. One came right in but I saw the other one tearing across a clearing. I turned on the outside light. I saw what appeared to be a white ghost swoop down at my cat three times. I was so scared. All three times my cat ran up a tree so he was OK. Then the "ghost" flew away and my cat came inside. Later I found out it was an owl and was only white because of the light, but still it shows how much we care about our pets.

At school we had a mock election. Bush won for President. Mitchell won for Senate, and Snowe won for House of Representatives.
